

WEST LONDON CAREERS HUB

Employer Engagement: A West London resource showcased

15th August 2022

As a brand new Careers Hub, the team in West London are immensely proud to celebrate the first of our schools' resources to be showcased on a national level. Earlier in the summer, we made a recommendation to the Careers and Enterprise Company to recognise the outstanding initiative and organisation of Featherstone High School's Careers Leader, Andrew Webb. Mr Webb developed an Employer Prospectus to facilitate the engagement of employers and businesses in school activities, which is distributed to employers at school events, as well as uploaded to the school's website. We commended the resource for the forward-planning it demonstrated, as well as the broad range of opportunities for employer and business engagement on offer at the school.

This Prospectus has now been uploaded to the The Careers & Enterprise Company Resource Directory, which showcases best practice among schools and colleges nationally in careers education: Employer Prospectus | CEC Resource Directory \(careersandenterprise.co.uk\)

We would like to extend our congratulations to the school for achieving this milestone, and to thank Mr Webb for his continued hard work and collaborative approach to continuously improving the landscape of careers education. If you are a business interested in supporting on any of the activities listed in the Prospectus, or would like to know more about our work with schools in West London, please contact us at: info@wlcareershubs.com
